Reporting That You're Not Getting Elsewhere (Do Your Own Research To Verify)

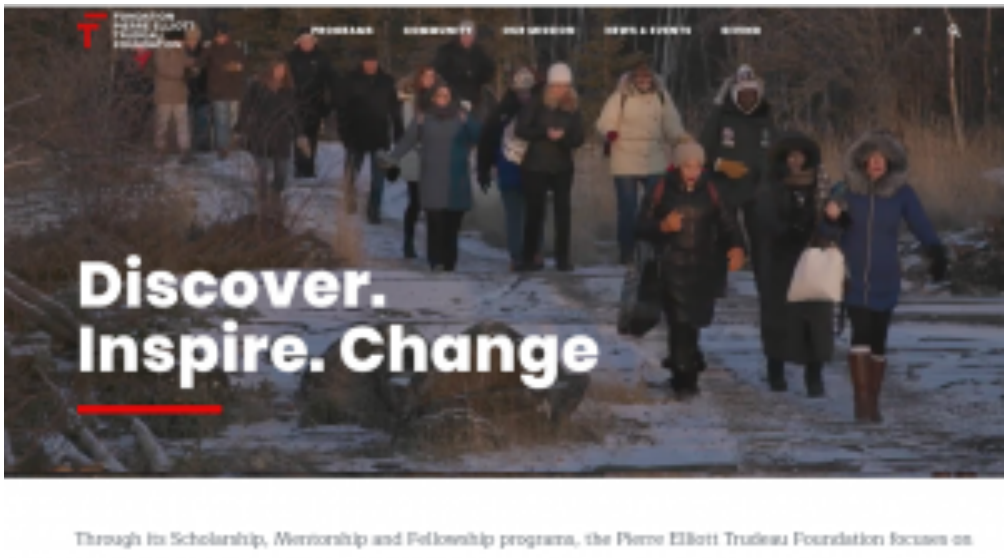
The Mockingbird (Trudeau) Foundation Of Canada



Through its Scholarship, Mentorship and Fellowship programs, the Pierre Elliott Trudeau Foundation focuses on

In order to fairly and accurately report on political and social events, the media has to have a certain level of detachment from the situation. Understandably, one cannot be a part of an organization, yet do any real investigative work on it. There is an obvious conflict of interest.

But that is exactly the case with the Trudeau Foundation. Many prominent members of the media (and former members) are part of the Foundation. This becomes a problem since they do little to hold the Foundation, or the Trudeau Family, to account for anything.

It must be mentioned, however, that Koch/Atlas cronies are prominent in so-called conservative media. Also, Post Media is the parent company of not only mainstream publications, but many alternative ones as well.

Valerie's distinguished career was jump-started in 1974 at Toronto radio station CFRB. After a few short years, she landed her own show called The Pringle Program. In 1984, she moved to CBC where she co-anchored Midday for eight years before joining CTV's Canada AM in 1993. There she spent eight and a half years as co-host.
For the past three years, Valerie has been traveling the world as co-producer and host for the travel show Valerie Pringle Has Left the Building and she also hosted two seasons of Test of Faith for Vision-TV. Her latest adventure led her on a 13-day trek to Mount Everest's base camp where she filed live reports for the Discovery Channel's Daily Planet.

What is the result of the media being in bed with the Trudeau Foundation? For starters, they don't seem to care about how many politicians or judges are also part of the group. Again, the conflict of interest is clear for everyone to see.

Yes, politicians across the spectrum are also involved with the Trudeau Foundation. Makes one wonder how ideologically divided they are if membership in this group (named after a former Prime Minister), is no big deal for any of them. And things are about to get even worse still.

of course, many of these people have left their positions, but still.

Five former Supreme Court of Canada Justices, and 1 BC Supreme Court Justice are also members of the Trudeau Foundation. This won't help with the impression that the judiciary is independent of the executive branch of government.

6. Jacques Bougie – SNC Lavalin

This person being with both Trudeau Foundation and on the SNC Lavalin Board of Directors wouldn't have anything to do with how Lavalin got its deferred prosecution agreement, would it? No, didn't think so.

Of course let's not forget John McCall MacBain, head of the European Climate Foundation, or Roy Heenan, co-founder of the law firm Heenan Blaikie.

7. Are They All Involved?

Why is the mainstream media in Canada so hesitant to report on topics like the Trudeau Foundation, and why won't they go into depth when they do? Consider the makeup of past and present members of the Trudeau Foundation:

- Prominent members of the media
- Politicians of all parties
- Supreme Court Justices
- Members of academia

What you see is an organization that has members of: (a) the media; (b) politicians; (c) the courts; and (d) universities, all under the same umbrella. There is no independence here, no checks and balances.
